
Cosmic magnetism

Katia Ferrière^{*1}

¹Institut de recherche en astrophysique et planétologie (IRAP) – CNRS : UMR5277, Observatoire
Midi-Pyrénées, Université Paul Sabatier (UPS) - Toulouse III – France

Résumé

I will review the main observational methods used to detect and measure cosmic magnetic fields in galaxies and in the intergalactic medium. I will explain what the different methods have already told us about the strength, direction and spatial distribution of these magnetic fields, and I will discuss the new results that can be expected from LOFAR and SKA.

^{*}Intervenant